

English Studies for Restaurant Workers

$470
Off!

English Studies for Restaurant Workers has been developed at a special early time to give those who work all day and into the night the opportunity to their English Language abilities. Having English language abilities gives more opportunities in work and helps meet Immigration New Zealand's English language requirements.

The Course Aims to:

- Improve the level of English of international workers in the food industry
- Give workers the basic and conversational English they need to work well in an English speaking environment
- Provide a flexible schedule that allows workers the opportunity to improve their English abilities outside of work hours

Why Study ESRW at WIE?

English Studies for Restaurant Workers is designed to fit the needs of all those working in a restaurant. It is at a special early time so that it does not interfere with students work schedules. As it is only four hours per week, students are able to learn English and still keep up with their busy lives.

The curriculum for the class is designed to give students the skills they will be using everyday. This course covers all four areas of language: speaking, listening, reading and writing, but there is a special emphasis put on conversational skills they will need daily. These include learning and practicing food, kitchen, and customer service vocabulary and conversation skills. By taking English Studies for Restaurant Workers, students will be able to do better in their jobs and be able to meet the English language requirements for Immigration should they decide to stay in New Zealand.
